

Doctoral Series: Vol. 5
Arbitration under Tax Treaties
Improving Legal Protection in International Tax Law

CONTENTS

Chapter 1: The lack of legal protection in international tax law

- 1.1. The application of double tax treaties in national law
- 1.2. The shortcomings of the mutual agreement procedure

Chapter 2: Optional arbitration

- 2.1. Current developments
- 2.2. Referral to the arbitration board
  - 2.2.1 The jurisdiction of the arbitration board
  - 2.2.2. The taxpayer's entitlement to the arbitration procedure
  - 2.2.3. Constitutional problems on the transfer of authority
- 2.3. The procedure before the arbitration board
  - 2.3.1. Constituting the arbitration board
  - 2.3.2. Procedural rules of the arbitration board
  - 2.3.3. The law to be applied by the arbitration board
- 2.4. The arbitration award
  - 2.4.1. The binding nature of the award
  - 2.4.2. Effects on the initial case
  - 2.4.3. Impact on other taxpayers
- 2.5. Evaluation

Chapter 3: Compulsory arbitration

- 3.1. Current developments
  - 3.1.1. Compulsory arbitration in tax treaties
  - 3.1.2. General arbitration and conciliation treaties
- 3.2. Referral to the arbitration board
  - 3.2.1. The obligation to initiate arbitration
  - 3.2.2. Enforcing the referral to an arbitration board
  - 3.2.3. Constitutional problems on transfer of authority
- 3.3. The procedure before the arbitration board
  - 3.3.1. Constituting the arbitration board
  - 3.3.2. Procedural rules of the arbitration board
  - 3.3.3. The law to be applied by the arbitration board
- 3.4. The decision of the arbitration board
  - 3.4.1. The binding nature of the award
  - 3.4.2. Effects on the initial case
  - 3.4.3. Impact on other taxpayers
- 3.5. Evaluation

Chapter 4: International Courts

- 4.1. Current developments
- 4.2. Referral of a case to the ECJ
  - 4.2.1. Establishing the ECJ's jurisdiction
  - 4.2.2. Constitutional problems relating to transfer of authority
  - 4.2.3. Enforcing the referral of a case to the ECJ
  - 4.2.4. The relation to the Arbitration Convention
- 4.3. Referral of a case to the ICJ
  - 4.3.1. Establishing the ICJ's jurisdiction
  - 4.3.2. Enforcing the referral of a case to the ICJ
- 4.4. The procedure before the ECJ and the ICJ
  - 4.4.1. Constituting the ECJ and the ICJ
  - 4.4.2. Procedural rules of the ECJ and the ICJ
  - 4.4.3. The law to be applied by the ECJ and the ICJ
- 4.5. The decision of the ECJ and the ICJ
  - 4.5.1. The binding nature of the decision
  - 4.5.2. Effects on the initial case
  - 4.5.3. Impact on other taxpayers
- 4.6. Evaluation

Chapter 5: Preliminary Rulings

- 5.1. Current Proposals
- 5.2. Referral a case to the preliminary ruling authority
  - 5.2.1. Establishing the jurisdiction of "mixed tax committees"
  - 5.2.2. Establishing the ECJ's jurisdiction to give preliminary rulings
  - 5.2.3. Transfer of competencies to the ECJ through jurisdiction protocols
  - 5.2.4. The initiation of a procedure for a preliminary ruling
- 5.3. The preliminary ruling procedure
  - 5.3.1. Constituting the preliminary ruling body
  - 5.3.2. Rules of the preliminary proceedings
  - 5.3.3. The law to be applied by the preliminary ruling body
- 5.4. The preliminary ruling
  - 5.4.1. The binding nature of the preliminary ruling
  - 5.4.2. Effects on the initial case referred for preliminary ruling
  - 5.4.3. Impact on other taxpayers
- 5.5. Evaluation

Chapter 6: Summary and Conclusion

- 6.1. Improving the taxpayer's legal protection
- 6.2. Recommendations

Bibliography

Appendix: Text of Arbitration Provisions in current double taxation conventions