EU Tax Law – Direct Taxation 2023

Why this book?

EU tax law substantially impacts the domestic tax laws of the EU Member States and the way in which those laws should be interpreted and applied. The effect of EU tax law on national legislation is becoming increasingly complex. Today, anyone working with or interested in tax law or tax planning is confronted with EU tax law issues.

The 2023 edition of EU Tax Law – Direct Taxation provides a clear picture of the EU law norms that are relevant from the perspective of direct taxes. It explains how these norms are, and should be, interpreted and how they affect national tax laws and the tax treatment in EU Member States. The book describes the legal remedies available against tax treatment that is in conflict with EU law.

The study begins with a comprehensive overview of the basic principles and concepts of EU tax law and relevant articles of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, analysing them in the light of direct tax case law. A discussion follows covering relevant EU directives and recommendations and other soft law material on direct taxes. Reference is made to all relevant judgments of the EU Court on direct taxes. The book includes a chapter on the tax treatment of the different EU entity forms and the future of corporate taxation. A separate chapter is dedicated to the EU law issues related to transfer pricing and to the EU law norms on administrative cooperation in tax matters. An extensive bibliography is included that directs the reader to further material on the topic.

The book is a handy reference tool for tax practitioners, judiciaries, tax administrations and university students alike. Its structure allows quick and easy access to essential information and facilitates a better understanding of the direct tax issues of EU tax law.

Preface

I got hooked by EU tax law in the early 1990s when I was writing my doctoral thesis. I have had a great passion for teaching and researching EU tax law ever since. Today, no one who is interested in, or working with, tax law or tax planning can avoid dealing with EU tax law issues. EU tax law has a huge impact on the domestic tax laws of the EU Member States and on the way in which the domestic tax laws and tax treaties of the Member States must be interpreted and applied.

There is a substantial body of literature on the different EU tax law issues. However, in my professional endeavours, I missed having a clear and comprehensive work on EU tax law available. There was a need for a reader-friendly, complete presentation of the direct tax law issues of EU tax law. As a professor of international tax law, I felt that it was my duty to remedy this defect. As a consequence, the first edition of this book was published in 2009. The book has been written keeping in mind the needs of practitioners, judiciary, tax administrations, scholars and university students. It provides a complete, in-depth yet easily manageable presentation of the direct tax law issues of EU law. The layout, headlining, figures, tables, bibliography and index are designed to allow fast and easy access to the information needed and to facilitate understanding and learning.

EU tax law develops rapidly, especially because of the growing number of judgments from the CJEU on direct tax matters. Therefore, regular updates of the book are necessary. The most recent judgments have clarified many remaining, unclear issues concerning the impact of EU law on direct taxation. This 2023 edition takes into account all judgments of the CJEU on direct tax matters issued by 1 June 2023. The new case law includes, for example, joined cases Fiat (C-885/19 P and C-898/19 P), L Fund (C-537/20), W AG (C-538/20), ACC Silicones Ltd. (C-572/20), Gallaher Limited (C-707/20), Allianz Benelux SA (C-295/21), VP Capital NV (C-414/21), X GmbH & Co. KG (C-431/21), joined cases Contship Italia SpA (C-433/21 and C-434/21), Banca A (C-827/21), Pharol (C-67/22), joined cases Manitou BF SA and Bricolage Investissement France SA (C-407/22 and C-408/22).

A new directive ensuring a global minimum level of taxation for groups of companies was issued on 14 December 2022 (the Pillar Two Directive). Member States shall bring into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with the Pillar Two Directive by 31 December 2023. A new sub-chapter on this Directive was added to this 2023 edition.

The 2023 edition also takes into account the revised version of the 1998 Code of Conduct for Business Taxation, issued by the Council on 8 November 2022 (Council conclusions on the reform of the Code of Conduct for Business Taxation).
